9 (the “Objection”) to the Trust Documents (as defined below), and respectfully represent as follows:

10 BACKGROUND

11 1. On March 16, 2020, the Plan Proponents filed the Debtors’ and Shareholder
12 Proponents’ Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization, Dated March 16, 2020 [Dkt. 6320] (together 13 with all schedules and exhibits thereto, and as may be modified, amended, or supplemented, the 14 “Plan”).<sup>1</sup> On March 17, 2020, the Court entered the Order (I) Approving Proposed Disclosure
15 Statement for Debtors’ and Shareholder Proponents’ Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization; (II)
16 Approving Form and Manner of Notice of Hearing on Proposed Disclosure Statement; (III)
17 Establishing and Approving Plan Solicitation and Voting Procedures; (IV) Approving Forms of 18 Ballots, Solicitation Packages, and Related Notices; and (V) Granting Related Relief [Dkt. 6340]
19 (the “Disclosure Statement Order”). On March 17, 2020, the Plan Proponents filed the solicitation 20 version of the Disclosure Statement for Debtors’ and Shareholder Proponents’ Joint Chapter 11
21 Plan of Reorganization [Dkt. 6353], as supplemented by the Supplement to Disclosure Statement 22 for Debtors’ and Shareholder Proponents’ Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization, approved by 23 Court Order on March 25, 2020 [Dkt. 6483].

24 2. Under the Plan, all Fire Victim Claims, including the Fire Victim Claims asserted 25 by each of the Objectants, shall be compensated from the Fire Victim Trust, which will be governed 26 by, among other things, various trust documents, including the Fire Victim Trust Agreement (the 28 Plan.

1 “Trust Agreement”) and the proposed Fire Victim Claims Resolution Procedures (the “CRP”, and 2 together with the Trust Agreement, the “Trust Documents”).

3 3. In accordance with the Plan and Disclosure Statement, on May 1, 2020, the Plan 4 Proponents filed the Notice of Filing of Plan Supplement in Connection with Debtors’ and 5 Shareholder Proponents’ Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization dated March 16, 2020 [Dkt.
6 No. 7037] (the “Plan Supplement”). The Plan Supplement included as Exhibit D thereto the Trust 7 Agreement together with all exhibits including the CRP.

8 4. In prior pleadings, certain Objectants raised concerns about the initial draft Trust 9 Documents, which were filed on March 3, 2020 [Dkt No. 6049] (the “Initial Draft Trust 10 Documents”). At an April 14, 2020, hearing before the Court, certain Objectants explained their 11 concerns, following which the Court suggested that the Debtors consider having these matters 12 addressed in a separate hearing prior to the scheduled Confirmation Hearing. Accordingly, on 13 May 1, 2020, the Plan Proponents, the TCC and the Objectants entered into and filed the Stipulation
14 by and Among the Plan Proponents, the Official Committee of Tort Claimants, the Adventist Health
15 Claimants, the Paradise Related Entities, AT&T and Comcast Regarding Fire Victim Trust
16 Document Issues [Dkt. No. 7050] (the “Briefing Stipulation”). By Order dated May 4, 2020 [Dkt.
17 No. 7060] (the “Briefing Order”), the Court approved the Briefing Stipulation.

18 5. The Briefing Order and the Briefing Stipulation provide for an expedited briefing 19 schedule for the filing of this Objection to the Trust Documents and responses thereto, and schedule 20 a hearing date of May 15, 2020, to adjudicate such objections. Under the Briefing Stipulation, this 21 Objection is limited to the Trust Documents (excluding any objections pursuant to section 1129(b) 22 of the Bankruptcy Code), with all other objections to the Plan to be reserved for the Confirmation 23 Hearing and filed in accordance with the deadlines established in the Disclosure Statement Order.

24 6. Pursuant to the Briefing Stipulation, the Objectants, the TCC and the Plan 25 Proponents engaged in confidential settlement discussions in an effort to resolve the Objectants’ 26 concerns with the Trust Documents. As a result of those efforts—and the Objectants appreciate 27 the focused attention dedicated by the TCC and the Plan Proponents—the parties were able to 28 resolve certain but not all of the Objectants’ issues. For example, the Objectants were concerned

1 that the Initial Draft Trust Documents appeared to disadvantage Fire Victim Claims with larger 2 claims (such as those held by the Objectants). This concern was based on the fact that (a) the Initial 3 Draft Trust Documents did not specify that Fire Victim Claims would be paid on a pro rata basis 4 and (b) the Disclosure Statement included a vague statement that “special consideration may be 5 given to the treatment” of large Fire Victim Claims. Disclosure Statement [Dkt. No. 6322] at 6 pg. 25. If the Trust Documents were indeed intended to treat large Fire Victim Claims differently 7 from other Fire Victim Claims, that disparate treatment would violate section 1123(a)(4), which 8 requires that a plan provide the same treatment for each claim of a particular class, unless the 9 affected holder agrees otherwise. To address these concerns, the Trust Documents were revised to 10 provide that: (i) Fire Victim Claims shall be paid on a pro rata basis; (ii) the Fire Victim Trustee 11 shall prepare analyses and budgets of all Fire Victim Claims in order to determine the amount of 12 interim distributions to be made to Approved Fire Victim Claims (as defined in the Trust 13 Agreement), taking into account the existence of unpaid Approved Fire Victim Claims and Fire 14 Victim Claims that have not yet become Approved Fire Victim Claims, and shall maintain 15 sufficient Trust Assets (as defined in the Trust Agreement) on hand to try to ensure that all 16 Approved Fire Victim Claims receive a pro rata distribution; and (iii) Fire Victim Claims would be 17 treated fairly, consistently and equitably without regard to the size of such claim. Thus, the Trust 18 Documents now reflect a construct whereby all Fire Victim Claimants, regardless of size, will be 19 eligible to receive distributions on a pro rata basis in respect of their Approved Fire Victim Claims.

20 7. Although the parties successfully resolved some key issues, several issues with the 21 Trust Documents remain unresolved and accordingly the Objectants have filed this Objection.<sup>2</sup>

22 OBJECTION

23 8. By this Objection, the Objectants object to the Trust Documents as follows: (a) the 24 Trust Documents impermissibly deprive Fire Victim Claimants of their statutory right to the 25 adjudication of their claims by this Court in violation of the Bankruptcy Code, a result that cannot 26

27 <sup>2</sup> In accordance with the Briefing Stipulation, the Objectants have limited their Objection to 28 issues concerning the Trust Documents and will separately file their objections (if any) to the Plan in accordance with the deadline established in the Disclosure Statement Order.

1 be imposed on objecting creditors on the ground that it is a form of “impairment” approved by an 2 accepting class of claimants; (b) the Trust Documents’ treatment of insurance is discriminatory and 3 improper as a matter of federal bankruptcy law and state law governing the allowance of claims;
4 (c) the Trust Documents may be amended in virtually any manner without further Court approval;
5 (d) the Trust Documents improperly allow the Trustee, without Court approval or oversight, to hold 6 a nonpassive financial interest in, and act as an attorney, agent or professional for, a Fire Victim
7 Claimant; (e) the Trust Documents preserve setoff and recoupment rights in favor of the Fire Victim 8 Trust and the Fire Victim Trustee in a manner contradictory to the terms of the Plan; (f) the 9 Claimant Release should be clarified to exclude claims arising after the date that the Claimant 10 Release is executed; (g) the Trust Documents improperly preclude Fire Victim Claimants with 11 property damage claims from recovering their reasonable attorneys’ fees recoverable under 12 applicable state law; and (h) the Trust Documents fail to contain adequate standards of review for 13 the adjudication of claims.

14 I. THE PLAN AND TRUST DOCUMENTS IMPERMISSIBLY DEPRIVE FIRE
15 VICTIM CLAIMANTS OF THEIR STATUTORY RIGHT TO 16 ADJUDICATION OF THEIR CLAIMS BY THIS COURT

17 9. Sections 501 and 502 of the Bankruptcy Code set out mechanisms for determining 18 the validity of claims filed against a bankruptcy estate. A creditor may file a proof of claim.
19 11 U.S.C. § 501(a). Once filed, the claim is “deemed allowed” unless a party in interest files an 20 objection. Id. at § 502(a). If such an objection is filed, “the court, after notice and a hearing, shall 21 determine the amount of such claim . . . as of the date of the filing of the petition.” Id. at § 502(b).

22 10. The Plan replaces the claims allowance process as set out in the Bankruptcy Code 23 with an altogether different process, one in which a trustee ultimately makes a final, binding, non-24 appealable determination that is not subject to any form of judicial review. Specifically, under the 25 Plan, “[a]ll Fire Victim Claims shall be channeled to the Fire Victim Trust” and the Fire Victim 26 Trust will then, in accordance with the Trust Agreement, “administer, process, settle, resolve, 27 liquidate, satisfy, and pay all Fire Victim Claims . . .” See Plan § 6.7(a). The Plan further provides 28 that, with few exceptions, Fire Victim Claims are “treated as unliquidated Disputed Claims . . . and . . . subject to resolution by the Fire Victim Trust in accordance with the Fire Victim Claims

1 Resolution Procedures.” See id. at § 7.1.

2 11. The Trust Documents empower the Fire Victim Trust to determine whether Fire
3 Victim Claims are eligible for payment, and if so, in what amount (each determination on a Fire 4 Victim Claim, a “Claims Determination”). The CRP provides for a three-tiered appellate process 5 pursuant to which Fire Victim Claimants may contest Claim Determinations. CRP § VIII. Once a 6 Fire Victim Claimant exhausts its appellate rights under that process, however, that claimant has 7 no recourse to this Court or any other court. Specifically, Section VIII.3 of the CRP provides that 8 the Trustee “may accept, reject, or revise the Appeals Determination and then will issue a Trustee 9 Determination to the Claimant ... The Trustee Determination will be final, binding, and non- 10 appealable and is not subject to review by any Court, including right to trial by jury.” 11 CRP § VIII.3. (emphasis added).

12 12. That is flatly unlawful. The Debtors contend that depriving a creditor of access to 13 the claims allowance process contemplated by the Bankruptcy Code is just a form of “plan 14 impairment” that can be imposed on objecting creditors so long as the class of Fire Victim 15 Claimants votes to accept such treatment under the Plan. But that has it backwards—impairment 16 refers to the treatment of an allowed claim. The process of determining that allowed claim is 17 logically antecedent to the question of the claim’s “treatment.” Accordingly, the right of access to 18 the courts given by the Bankruptcy Code to every creditor to determine the allowed amount of that 19 creditor’s claim cannot be forfeited by the acceptance, by a majority of the creditors in a class, of a 20 plan that would do so. The Trust Documents are thus violative of the Bankruptcy Code and 21 preclude the Plan from being confirmed pursuant to section 1129(a)(1).

22 A. The Bankruptcy Code Entitles Fire Victim Claimants To The Adjudication
23 Of Their Claims Consistent With The Statutory Claims Allowance Process

24 13. But for the Debtors’ bankruptcy, Fire Victim Claimants would assert claims against 25 the Debtors in courts of competent jurisdiction where such claims would either be settled 26 consensually or, if that were not possible, litigated to judgment. The Bankruptcy Code effectively 27 replaces the type of litigation that would otherwise proceed outside of bankruptcy with a more 28 streamlined claims allowance process. Section 501 of the Bankruptcy Code authorizes creditors to

1 publicly file proofs of claim (see id. at § 502(a) (“[a] claim or interest, proof of which is filed under 2 section 501 of this title, is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest, . . . objects.”); and after a 3 party in interest objects to a claim, only the court is authorized to determine whether it should be 4 allowed and in what amount. See id. at § 502(b) (“if such objection to a claim is made, the court, 5 after notice and a hearing, shall determine the amount of such claim . . . as of the date of the filing 6 of the petition, and shall allow such claim in such amount”) (emphasis added)).

7 14. The Bankruptcy Code and case law make clear that the bankruptcy court is the 8 ultimate arbiter of the claims allowance process. As the Supreme Court explained in a case arising 9 out of the earlier PG&E bankruptcy, “[o]nce a proof of claim has been filed, the court must 10 determine whether the claim is ‘allowed’ under § 502(a) of the Bankruptcy Code.” Travelers Cas.

22 15. Every step in the claims allowance process contemplates judicial oversight of the 23 contested matter and adjudication of parties’ rights against the estates. The Bankruptcy Code and 24 Bankruptcy Rules include an array of other rules and requirements governing the nature, extent, 25 and determination of creditor claims, all of which either contemplate or expressly require an in-26 court process. See, e.g., 11 U.S.C. §§ 503-511 (governing, among other things, the classification,

10 16. These provisions of the Bankruptcy Code and Bankruptcy Rules are designed to 11 promote the efficient administration of the bankruptcy estate while protecting the legitimate 12 interests of debtors, creditors, and other stakeholders. Nothing in the Bankruptcy Code or the 13 Bankruptcy Rules allows a plan to strip nonconsenting creditors and other parties in interest of 14 those protections and administer estate claims and assets in private. See, e.g., In re Filex, Inc., 116
15 B.R. 37, 40 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1990) (noting a plan was “patently unconfirmable under Chapter 11
16 of the Bankruptcy Code because it provide[d] that all objections or disputes as to claims w[ould]
17 be resolved by an arbitrator in accordance with the rules of the American Arbitration Association 18 rather than by th[e] court in accordance with 11 U.S.C. § 502.”); see also In re Butcher, 459 B.R.
19 115, 130 (Bankr. D. Colo. 2011) (finding chapter 13 plan unconfirmable where it sought to “cut 20 off” the Bankruptcy Code’s claims allowance process and noting that the court was “unaware of 21 arguments in the chapter 11 context that plan confirmation should cut off the orderly claim 22 allowance process set out in the Bankruptcy Code and the Rules”).

23 17. To be sure, in the mass tort context, the administrative difficulty of adjudicating tens 24 of thousands of claims has led trusts to contain mechanisms for resolving claims that have included 25 (with the consent of the affected claimants) settlement mechanisms under which the trust would 26 make a settlement offer to a claimant to resolve the claim (often in accordance with matrices 27 designed to ensure that similar claims would receive similar treatment). See, e.g., In re Thorpe 28 Insulation Co., Case No. 2:07-bk-19271 (BB) (Bankr. C.D. Cal. 2007) [Dkt. 3418] (trust

4 D.N.J. 2018) [Dkt. 729] (same); In re Quigley Company, Inc., Case No. 04-15739 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y.
5 2006) [Dkt. 2662] (same). But the law is clear that a claimant that does not accept such a settlement 6 is entitled by law to access the courts to adjudicate the allowance or disallowance of a proof of 7 claim. In re G-I Holdings, Inc., 323 B.R. 583, 616-17 (Bankr. D. N.J. 2005) (noting 8 estimation/liquidation procedures conducted by a nonjudicial entity are subject to judicial review).

9 18. Any Fire Victim Claimant who wishes to dispute a final Claim Determination is thus 10 entitled, by statute, to a hearing with the rights and protections afforded by the Bankruptcy Code 11 and the Bankruptcy Rules governing claims allowance. The Debtors may not pick and choose 12 which provisions of the Bankruptcy Code to observe and which to ignore. Accordingly, the CRP 13 must be revised to restore Fire Victim Claimants' recourse to this Court and any appellate court of 14 competent jurisdiction with respect to the adjudication of their claims. Absent this modification, 15 the Trust Documents run afoul of the Bankruptcy Code, and the Plan is unconfirmable under section 16 1129(a)(1). See, e.g., Elder v. Uecker (In re Elder), 325 B.R. 292, 300 (N.D. Cal. 2005) 17 (authorizing plan administrator to "compromise and settle claims objections, provided that those 18 who are unhappy with the results are still entitled to a hearing in the bankruptcy court"); 10 COLLIER

21 B. The Acceptance Of A Plan By A Class of Claimants Cannot Deprive Non- 22 Consenting Claimants Of Access To The Claims Allowance Process

23 19. The Plan Proponents contend that depriving creditors of the right to get into court to 24 resolve claims allowance issues is simply a way in which the plan "impairs" their claims, and that 25 the acceptance by a requisite majority of a form of impairment may lawfully bind the entire class 26 to that treatment—even those members of the class who object to it.

27 20. That analysis is wrong. The claims allowance process is logically antecedent to the 28 way in which a plan may impair an allowed claim. Otherwise put, while a class may bind a minority

1 to the treatment of the claim; the determination of that claim comes before anything that may 2 happen under a plan of reorganization.

3 21. The Third Circuit described this analysis in Solow v. PPI Enters.(U.S.) (In re PPI 4 Enters. (U.S.)), 324 F.3d 197, 203 (3d Cir. 2003), where it explained that a plan that paid allowed 5 claims in full left those claims “unimpaired,” even if the claim was reduced—by operation of the 6 Bankruptcy Code—from what non-bankruptcy law would otherwise provide (in that case, because 7 of the application of the section 502(d)(6) cap on a landlord’s rejection damages claim). The 8 operation of section 502(d)(6) was a form of “statutory impairment,” which is analytically separate 9 from being impaired under a plan. As the Third Circuit explained it, “impairment” can refer to one 10 of “two distinct concepts: (i) plan impairment, under which the debtor alters the ‘legal, equitable, 11 and contractual rights to which [the] claim entitles the holder of such claim,’ and (ii) statutory 12 impairment, under which the operation of a provision of the Code alters the amount that the creditor 13 is entitled to under nonbankruptcy law.” In re PPI Enters., 324 F.3d at 203.

14 22. The question of determining a creditor’s allowed claim is thus analytically distinct 15 *from—and antecedent to—*issues of plan impairment. Claim allowance is an individual statutory 16 determination on each creditor’s claim, not a pro rata class treatment that can be accepted or 17 rejected by a class under a plan. The Plan Proponents improperly conflate these two concepts by 18 proposing that Fire Victim Claimants vote to accept or reject alleged “plan impairment” that 19 eliminates their statutory right to the claim allowance process carried out under the auspices of this 20 Court. The Bankruptcy Code does not countenance, and this Court cannot confirm, a plan that 21 proposes to “impair” the statutorily mandated process by which Fire Victim Claimants’ claims are 22 allowed. For this reason, unless the Trust Documents are revised to preserve Fire Victim 23 Claimants’ rights to adjudication of their claims by this Court, the Plan cannot be confirmed. Filex, 24 116 B.R. at 40; see In re Beyond.com Corp., 289 B.R. 138, 143 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2003) (“Of 25 greatest concern to the court are those provisions that dramatically reduce notice to creditors of 26 matters that the drafters of the Bankruptcy Code and Rules considered fundamental to bankruptcy 27 due process.”); 7 Collier on Bankruptcy P 1129.02 (16th 2020) (“Section 1129(a)(1) can also be 28 used as the grounds for denial of confirmation when the plan is contrary to provisions of title 11 not found in chapter 11, such as impermissible releases of third parties, or if the plan selectively rides roughshod over and attempts to nullify important provisions of the Bankruptcy Code.”).

23. Depriving creditors of access to the courts for a determination of their claim is contrary to the Bankruptcy Code. The Trust Documents must be revised to restore Fire Victim Claimants’ fundamental rights to adjudicate the merits of their claims and pursue any appeals provided for by statute. Unless the Plan is amended to so provide, it cannot be confirmed.

II. THE TREATMENT AFFORDED INSURANCE IN THE TRUST DOCUMENTS IS UNJUST, UNREASONABLE AND VIOLATES LAW

24. As described in Paragraph 10 above, the Plan channels all Fire Victim Claims to the Trust, and replaces the statutory claims allowance process with a forced alternative dispute resolution. The rules for the treatment afforded insurance in Section 6.7(a) of the Plan and the proposed Trust Documents violate federal bankruptcy law, including section 502 of the Bankruptcy Code, regarding claims allowance.

25. Specifically, Section 2.6 of the Trust Agreement entitles the Trustee to reduce any “Covered Fire Victim Claim” on a “on a dollar-for-dollar basis” by the Fire Victim Claimant’s “Available Insurance Recoveries,” which include both amounts “actually paid” or “to be paid” to the Fire Victim by its insurer, and those amounts deemed by the Trustee to be “payable or otherwise owed to the Fire Victim” under an insurance policy. Trust Agreement § 2.6. In other words, Fire Victim Claims will be reduced even if the Fire Victim recovers little or nothing from its insurer, so long as the Trustee in his sole discretion determines that insurance is “available.” Id.

26. Section 2.6 of the Trust Agreement also entitles the Trustee to reduce any Fire Victim Claim for unpaid insurance, if he determines in his sole discretion that the Fire Victim did not use “reasonable efforts” to obtain “available” insurance. “Reasonable efforts” is not defined,<sup>3</sup> and the Trustee apparently may even require a Fire Victim to sue its insurers if the Trustee deems that “reasonable.” There is no time limit for a Fire Victim to take “reasonable efforts.” A Fire

<sup>3</sup> Only one circumstance is recognized as constituting “reasonable efforts”: if the insurer pays the victim amounts “equivalent to or greater than (i) the full amount of the [covered damages or loss] or (ii) the available policy limits for claims made for such damages or losses.” Trust Agreement § 2.6(c) (emphasis added).

1 Victim settling with its insurer does so at its peril if the Trustee determines that the settlement was 2 unreasonable and reduces a Fire Victim Claimant's claim by more than the Fire Victim actually 3 received.

4 27. While Available Insurance Recoveries do not include recoveries under an insurance 5 policy that "cannot reasonably be construed to provide coverage," the Trustee alone makes that 6 determination. Nothing in Section 2.6 prevents him from disregarding even a denial of coverage
7 from an insurance company, much less respecting a Fire Victim Claimant's conclusion that no 8 additional insurance recoveries are likely, even when that conclusion is reached with the assistance 9 of experienced insurance counsel. Nor is the Trustee even required to conclude that the most 10 reasonable interpretation of the policy is that it affords coverage; any arguably "reasonable" 11 interpretation in favor of coverage, even if incorrect, will suffice. The Fire Victim Claimant's only 12 recourse is to hope that the Trustee will accept an assignment of its insurance rights, but the Trust 13 Agreement is quick to point out that even that is not "require[d]." <sup>4</sup> Trust Agreement § 2.6(c).

14 28. These insurance provisions violate bankruptcy law for at least three reasons:
15 (1) they ignore the long-standing principle set forth by the Supreme Court in Ivanhoe Bldg. & Loan 16 Ass'n of Newark, N.J. v. Orr, 295 U.S. 243, 245–46 (1935), that the allowed amount of a claim is 17 not reduced by actual or potential recoveries from other sources or third parties; (2) they violate the 18 collateral source rule, which is a controlling state law doctrine that applies to bankruptcy claims 19 and prevents a tort victim's recovery from being reduced by the amount of any insurance recoveries 20 for the same losses; and (3) they violate section 1123(a)(4) of the Bankruptcy Code because they 21 provide for unequal treatment among the class of Fire Victim Claimants.

22 29. Along with the denial of the statutorily required claim allowance process (described 23 in Part I.A), these attempts to deprive a creditor of the right to an appropriate allowed claim as 24 provided under section 502 and governing state law cannot be "plan impairment" that can be 25 imposed on objecting creditors (as described in Part I.B). Claims are allowed under section 502

26 <sup>4</sup> The Objectants also do not object to some requirement for Fire Victim Claimants to use 27 commercially reasonable efforts to pursue insurance, so long as there are objective criteria, 28 including a time limit (e.g., 6 months from the confirmation date), and no requirement obligating the Fire Victim Claimant to file a lawsuit against its insurer.

1 and underlying state law. There is no Bankruptcy Code provision (section 502 or otherwise) that 2 requires a creditor's allowed claim to be offset or reduced by its own insurance recoveries, and 3 certainly no provision that allows a Trustee to deduct what he thinks is a "reasonable" insurance
4 recovery. As set forth in Part I.B above, impairment refers to the treatment of an allowed claim 5 (not the allowance of the claim). The determination of that allowed claim under section 502 and 6 state law is antecedent to the question of the claim's "treatment."<sup>5</sup>

7 A. The Treatment Of Insurance Violates Federal Bankruptcy Law

8 30. As a matter of long-standing federal bankruptcy law, the allowed amount of a 9 creditor's claim may not be reduced due to actual or potential recoveries from other sources or third 10 parties. Rather, the claim is allowed in the full amount without any deduction, although recoveries 11 from all sources cannot exceed 100% of the claim in order to avoid double recovery. This rule 12 emanates from a 1935 Supreme Court decision holding that creditors are entitled to prove the full 13 amount of their claim notwithstanding their recoveries from other sources. Ivanhoe Bldg. & Loan 14 Ass'n of Newark, N.J. v. Orr, 295 U.S. 243, 245–46 (1935) ("Sections 1(23) and 57e do not,
15 therefore, forbid the proof of a claim for the principal of the bond with interest, though the petitioner 16 may not collect and retain dividends which with the sum realized from the foreclosure will more 17 than make up that amount."); see also RFC v. Denver & R.G.W.R. Co., 328 U.S. 495, 529 (1946)
18 ("The rule is settled in bankruptcy proceedings that a creditor secured by the property of others 19 need not deduct the value of that collateral or its proceeds in proving his debt").

20 31. Although decided under the Bankruptcy Act, Ivanhoe remains binding precedent 21 under the Bankruptcy Code. The Supreme Court has stated that "[w]hen Congress amends the 22 bankruptcy laws, it does not write 'on a clean slate.'" Dewsnup v. Timm, 502 U.S. 410, 419 (1992).
23 As held by Judge Carlson in this District:

24 Congress is presumed to have enacted the Bankruptcy Code with an 25 understanding of the holding of Ivanhoe, and to have intended to

26 <sup>5</sup> Surely, the Debtors and the TCC cannot contend that a majority of the Fire Victim Class may 27 vote to disallow certain creditors' claims altogether, or allow some creditors' claims in low 28 fixed amounts. Yet, that is, in essence, what is being proposed through the Trust Documents' mechanics.

1 incorporate that holding into the Code, unless the language of the 2 Code or its legislative history clearly provides otherwise. The 3 Committee points to no provision in the Code that adopts a 4 mechanism for accounting for payment by third parties different 5 from that specified in Ivanhoe, nor to any statement in the 6 legislative history indicating that Congress intended to overrule 7 Ivanhoe.

8 In re Del Biaggio, 496 B.R. 600, 602-03 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2012).

9 32. Ivanhoe has been followed time and again as a matter of federal bankruptcy law (not 10 state law) under the current Bankruptcy Code, including in this District. See In re Del Biaggio, 496 11 B.R. at 605 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2012) (“In light of the four factors described above, I determine that 12 the California Reduction-of-Claim Approach is not intended to apply to claims asserted in a federal 13 bankruptcy case, and that Ivanhoe states a rule of federal bankruptcy law that must prevail over any 14 contrary state law”). Other courts also routinely apply this basic principle. See, e.g., Nuveen Mun.
15 Tr. ex rel. Nuveen High Yield Mun. Bond Fund v. WithumSmith Brown, P.C., 692 F.3d 283, 295
16 (3d Cir. 2012) (“Ivanhoe thus provides that a creditor may file a proof of claim for the total amount 17 it is owed by a debtor even if it has recovered or may recover all or a portion of that amount from 18 a non-debtor.”); In re Yelverton, No. 09-00414, 2015 WL 3637440, at *6 (Bankr. D. D.C. June 10, 21 rata distribution, because until she has fully collected her claims (from the estate and from any non-22 estate sources), her pro rata distribution from the estate would be based on the allowed amount of 25 debtor’s objection that the amount of a lender’s allowed claim should be reduced by payments

26 received from third parties); In re Nat’l Energy & Gas Transmission, Inc., 492 F. 3d 297, 301 (4th 27 Cir. 2007) (“The debtors’ argument is foreclosed by the combination of [Ivanhoe], and New York 28 law, which governs pursuant to the Agreement. In Ivanhoe, the Supreme Court held that a creditor need not deduct from his claim in bankruptcy an amount received from a non-debtor third party in partial satisfaction of an obligation. Thus, as a matter of bankruptcy law, ET Power’s debt to

1 Liberty is not reduced by the amount which Liberty received from GTN.”); In re Journal Register
2 Co., 407 B.R. 520, 533 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2009) (“We start with the proposition that members of 3 an unsecured creditors class may have rights to payment from third parties, such as joint obligors, 4 sureties and guarantors, and these rights may entitle them to a disproportionate recovery compared 5 to other creditors of the same class (up to a full recovery).”); Sec. Investor Prot. Corp. v. Waddell

8 Waddell Jenmar Sec., Inc.), 991 F.2d 792 (4th Cir. 1993) (no reduction of claim in bankruptcy for 9 recovery from third party where no double recovery).

10 33. Judge Carlson’s decision in Del Baggio is instructive. The Del Baggio court found 11 that, as a matter of federal bankruptcy law, the amount of a proof of claim need not be reduced by 12 amounts recovered from a third party co-obligor (and even when California law would have 13 required such a deduction). Del Baggio, supra, 496 B.R. at 603-04 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2012).
14 Rather, Judge Carlson held that only the creditor’s aggregate dividend from the estate is limited so 15 that the creditor does not recover more than 100% of the claim from all sources, i.e., a double 16 recovery. Id. This recognizes the bankruptcy policy underlying Ivanhoe that some creditors may 17 have a greater overall recovery due to separate rights they have against third parties, and having 18 their own insurance policy (as is the case here), is but one example. Id. at 603 (“Ivanhoe decides 19 that the amount the creditor’s claim in the bankruptcy case is not affected by third-party payments, 20 except to the extent payment from the debtor would produce a double recovery. Ivanhoe thus 21 chooses to value equality of treatment by the debtor’s estate above equality of overall outcomes 22 among creditors having different rights against third parties.”); see also In re Journal Register Co., 23 407 B.R. at 533 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2009) (“members of an unsecured creditors class may have rights 24 to payment from third parties, such as joint obligors, sureties and guarantors, and these rights may 25 entitle them to a disproportionate recovery compared to other creditors of the same class (up to a 26 full recovery)).”<sup>6</sup>

27
28 <sup>6</sup> The decisions in In re Ahrens, Nos. 16-1065 and 1117 – Ju, Ku, Ma, 2016 WL 6427279 (B.A.P.
9th Cir. Oct. 27, 2016), and In re Kensington Apartment Properties, LLC, No. 10-73976 CN,

1           34. Ivanhoe is even more compelling in the instant case because there is no conflict
2 between California state law and federal law. Rather, California’s state law collateral source rule 3 operates in a manner similar to Ivanhoe.

4           B. The Treatment Of Insurance Violates The Collateral Source Rule

5           35. The insurance provisions also violate the collateral source rule, which prohibits a 6 tortfeasor from getting a benefit from a victim’s insurance. Helfend v. Southern Cal. Rapid Transit 7 Dist., 2 Cal. 3d 1, 10 (1970). The collateral source rule does not go away in a bankruptcy case.
8 That being said, even though the Objectants are willing, notwithstanding the collateral source rule, 9 to allow a credit for amounts actually recovered by a victim from his or her insurance in order to 10 avoid a double recovery consistent with the Ivanhoe rule, there is no basis to give the Trust—11 standing in the shoes of the tortfeasor—any credit for amounts that have not been paid by insurance, 12 simply because the Trustee, in his sole and unfettered judgment, determines that such amounts are 13 “available,” or because the Trustee determines they should be paid by the insurer, even if they are 14 never paid. Not only would the tortfeasor be getting a windfall from unrealized insurance, the 15 claimant would be penalized for having bought insurance from an insurance company that decided 16 for whatever reason not to honor its contract.

17           36. Under the collateral source rule, a tort victim’s claims against a tortfeasor (here the 18 Trust standing in the shoes of the Debtors) cannot be reduced based on recoveries from the victim’s 19 own insurance—and certainly not from a “available insurance” that has not been paid and 20 may never be paid. See, e.g., Restatement (Second) of Torts § 920A (1979) (“[p]ayments made 21 to or benefits conferred on the injured party from other sources are not credited against the 22 tortfeasor’s liability, although they cover all or a part of the harm for which the tortfeasor is 23

24           2019 WL 3933713 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. Aug. 19, 2019), are not to the contrary. In In re Ahrens, 25 the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel recognized the Ivanhoe rule and held that payments received 26 by a creditor from the debtor itself must be taken into account to reduce the amount of the claim 27 asserted against the debtor. In In re Kensington Apartment Properties, LLC, Judge Novack 28 addressed a dispute several years after plan confirmation and allowance of a secured creditor’s claims by two co-obligor debtors and held that the lender in connection with post-confirmation refinancings and payoffs years later is entitled only to a single satisfaction of the total secured debt under California law. This case had nothing to do with the allowance or amount of the claims in the chapter 11 cases or the Ivanhoe rule.

1 liable?"); see also Krusi v. Bear, Stearns & Co., 144 Cal. App. 3d 664, 674 (1983) ("where the 2 plaintiff obtains compensation from his own insurer or a source independent of ('collateral' to) the 3 tortfeasor, plaintiff's tort recovery is not reduced") (emphasis in original).

4 37. The fact that this issue arises in bankruptcy does not impact application of the 5 collateral source rule. "The Supreme Court has 'long recognized that the basic federal rule in 6 bankruptcy is that state law governs the substance of claims, Congress having generally left the 7 determination of property rights in the assets of a bankrupt's estate to state law.'" Fitness Holdings
8 Int'l, Inc. v. Hancock Park, et al., 714 F. 3d 1141, 1146 (9th Cir. 2013), citing Travelers PG&E, 9 549 U.S. at 450. In Travelers, the Supreme Court made clear that a creditor's entitlement in the 10 bankruptcy case arises from the underlying substantive law which "requires bankruptcy courts to 11 consult state law in determining the validity of most claims." 549 U.S. at 450. Thus, when the 12 Bankruptcy Code uses the word "claim," meaning a right to payment, "it is usually referring to a 13 right to payment recognized under state law." Id. The Supreme Court held that a bankruptcy court 14 does not have the power to disallow claims cognizable under state law, unless there is some 15 Bankruptcy Code provision allowing for such claims to be disallowed. Id.

16 38. The collateral source rule and its application clearly is an issue of state law. Berg v.
17 First State Ins. Co., 915 F. 2d 460, 467 (9th Cir. 1990) ("[a] federal court applies state law when it 18 deals with the collateral source rule"). In Berg, the court cited to Helpend, supra, where the 19 California Supreme Court expressed that the collateral source rule "expresses a policy judgment in 20 favor of encouraging citizens to purchase and maintain insurance for personal injuries and for other 21 eventualities. . . . If we were to permit a tortfeasor to mitigate damages with payments from 22 plaintiff's insurance, plaintiff would be in a position inferior to that of having bought no insurance, 23 because his payment of premiums would have earned no benefit." Id. In keeping with these 24 principles, bankruptcy courts have applied the collateral source rule where it has been raised as an 25 issue. See, e.g., In re Brown, 570 B.R. 98, 111 (W.D. Okla. 2017) (collateral source rule barred 26 debtor's attempt to avoid obligation to creditor based on payment by title insurer); In re Borsos, 27 544 B.R. 201, 211-12 (E.D. Cal. 2016) (applying collateral source rule in context of violation of 28 section 524(a) discharge injunction); In re General Coffee Corp., 85 B.R. 905, 908 (S.D. Fla. 1988)

1 (under collateral source rule, creditor claims against bankruptcy estate could not be reduced by 2 recoveries from collateral sources).

3 39. Since under the collateral source rule a tortfeasor should not benefit from a 4 claimant's actual insurance recoveries, it is axiomatic that unpaid insurance amounts, whether 5 characterized as "available" or otherwise, cannot be deducted from a claimant's recovery. This is 6 true whether the case is in a state court or in a bankruptcy court, where state law applies to evaluate 7 claims.

8 40. Yet, this is what is proposed in the Trust Documents. Not only are amounts actually 9 received by a claimant from its insurance to be deducted from every claim, the Trustee "shall" also 10 deduct amounts characterized as "available insurance" which are "to be paid, payable, or otherwise 11 owed" by an insurer. Trust Agreement § 2.6. Whether amounts are "payable" or "otherwise owed" 12 by an insurers is to be decided by the Trustee in his sole discretion. The Trustee can disregard the 13 plain meaning of the policies, and can disregard the fact that an insurer has denied or otherwise 14 disputed coverage. The Trustee also can decide in his sole discretion whether the claimant took 15 "reasonable efforts to obtain insurance" and if "reasonable efforts" were not undertaken, then the 16 Trustee can deduct from a claim "the amounts that could or should have been paid under a policy 17 of insurance to the Fire Victim." Thus, if the Trustee determines that "reasonable efforts" means 18 that a given Fire Victim, in the face of a coverage denial, should have hired lawyers to file suit 19 against its own insurer, then the Trustee can deduct from the Fire Victim Claimant's claim any 20 amounts it believes the insurer "should have" or "could have" paid had the Fire Victim sued the 21 insurance company. And, if the Fire Victim sues and then settles, the Trustee could even second 22 guess the amount of that settlement.

23 41. Under the Trust Documents, the Trustee is given unfettered authority and discretion 24 (without even the specter of court review) to reduce claims by amounts he deems should or could 25 have been paid by an insurer, but which were never paid and will never be paid.<sup>7</sup> This is

26
27 <sup>7</sup> The only arguable guardrail placed on the Trustee is the statement that, "Available Insurance 28 Recoveries shall not include any policy of insurance that cannot be reasonably construed to provide coverage for damages or losses arising from or attributable to a Wildfire." A construction of the policy need not even be the most reasonable (much less correct)

1 inappropriate, unfair and clearly violates all notions of the collateral source rule and applicable state
2 law which, along with section 502(b), determines the allowed amount of the claim. In no universe
3 is a tortfeasor (or a Trustee standing in the shoes of a tortfeasor) entitled to benefit from a victim's 4 unrecovered insurance. In no universe is the tortfeasor (or a Trustee standing in the shoes of 5 tortfeasor) the arbiter of what constitutes "reasonable efforts" that a victim must take to pursue its 6 own insurance monies. And in no universe is the tortfeasor (or a Trustee standing in the shoes of 7 the tortfeasor), the decider of whether and how much a victim's claim should be reduced by 8 insurance monies never received by the victim.<sup>8</sup>

9 C. The Insurance Provisions Violate Section 1123(a)(4) As They Provide For 10 Disparate Treatment Among Fire Victim Claimants

11 42. Finally, Section 2.6 of the Trust Agreement violates section 1123(a)(4) of the 12 Bankruptcy Code because it provides for disparate treatment among the single class of Fire Victim 13 Claimants. Section 1123(a)(4) provides that "[n]otwithstanding any otherwise applicable 14 nonbankruptcy law, a plan shall . . . provide the same treatment for each claim or interest of a 15 particular class, unless the holder of a particular claim or interest agrees to a less favorable treatment 16 of such particular claim or interest." This provision requires "equality of treatment of 'claims' or 17 'interests' placed in the same class." Acequia, Inc. v. Clinton, 787 F. 2d 1352, 1363 (9th Cir. 1986); 18 see also The FINOVA Group, Inc. v. BNP Paribas, 304 B.R. 630, 637 (D. Del. 2004) (to treat some

19 _____ 20 interpretation to make this exception inapplicable. Moreover, since the Trustee is the one who 21 decides this issue and the Fire Victim Claimant has no ability to seek review of the Trustee's 22 determination, the Trustee has the unfettered ability to decide what is covered and what is not 23 covered by whatever standard he decides. This hardly places any restriction on the Trustee's 24 decision-making powers.

25 <sup>8</sup> While the Objectants submit that under Ivanhoe and the collateral source rule claims should be 26 allowed in full without reduction for any insurance, they do not seek double recovery and are 27 willing to agree to a process whereby insurance amounts actually paid by their insurers can be 28 taken into account. A more equitable solution would be to treat insurance payments as Section 2.8 of the Trust Agreement treats payments from FEMA, and simply allow credits for amounts actually received from an insurer after a finite period of time has elapsed, which would be used to ensure that a claimant does not recover more than 100% of its allowed claim. While this approach still violates the collateral source rule, the Objectants would consent to such treatment of insurance payments, provided there is an ability to seek judicial review of any claim determinations. However, under no circumstance is it ever proper to reduce claims or recoveries by insurance monies that have not been paid and may never be paid, just because the Trustee determines in his sole discretion that there is uncollected "available insurance."

1 creditors differently than others in the same class would “violate the equal treatment mandate of 2 Section 1123(a)(4)”). All claimants in a class must have the same opportunity for recovery, 3 meaning that all members of a class are subject to the same process for claim payment. In re W.R.
4 Grace & Co., 729 F. 3d 311, 327 (3rd Cir. 2013). For example, claimants “would receive the 5 ‘same treatment’ if they all were permitted to present their claims to a jury and were all paid 6 whatever amounts the jury awarded, until funds were no longer available.” In re Joint E. & S. Dist.
7 Asbestos Litig., 982 F. 2d 721, 749 (2d Cir. 1992).

8 43. In the present case, the insurance provisions lead to impermissible disparate 9 treatment between claimants within the Fire Victim class.

10 44. First, claimants with insurance are treated worse than claimants without insurance.
11 A claimant that received some insurance money and went to trial in state court and recovered 12 $100,000 from the jury would be entitled to the same amount ($100,000) from the tortfeasor as a 13 claimant without insurance that also recovered $100,000 from a state court jury. This is because 14 the collateral source rule does not permit the tortfeasor to get a windfall if a claimant paid premiums
15 to obtain insurance. But under the insurance provisions in the Trust Documents, the claimant 16 without insurance would get $100,000, and the claimant with an insurance payment would get less.
17 That violates 1123(a)(4). While the Objectants are willing to live with taking insurance payments 18 into account to avoid double recovery if a claimant actually recovered insurance funds, the Trust 19 Documents allow the Trustee to reduce claims by amounts never paid by an insurance company, if 20 the Trustee decides such amounts are “available.” Thus, a claimant with a $100,000 claim which 21 was unpaid but deemed “available” insurance will get less than a claimant with the same $100,000
22 claim who did not purchase insurance for the same exact claim. This result eviscerates all notions 23 of equal treatment guaranteed by the Bankruptcy Code, and penalizes Fire Victim Claimants who 24 purchased insurance in favor of those who decided to all go uninsured.

25 45. Second, the insurance provisions explicitly provide for unequal treatment among 26 Fire Victim Claimants with unpaid insurance. Specifically, Section 2.6(c) of the Trust Agreement 27 provides:
28

1 If a Fire Victim is unsuccessful in obtaining payment of the 2 available policy limits from an insurer after exercising reasonable 3 efforts in making claims for damages or losses arising from or 4 attributable to a Wildfire, the Trustee may, in his or her sole and 5 absolute discretion, accept an assignment of his or her rights against 6 the insurance company (the “Claimant Insurance Rights”) to the Trustee, in which event the Fire Victim shall be deemed to have exercised reasonable efforts with respect to the recoveries available from such insurer for such damages or losses. For the avoidance of doubt, nothing in this Section shall require the Trustee to accept an assignment of a Fire Victim’s insurance rights.

7 46. Under this provision, the Trustee is granted the explicit power to favor some Fire
8 Victim Claimants over others in its “sole and absolute discretion.” In other words, for any reason 9 (or no reason) whatsoever, the Trustee is empowered to accept an assignment of an insurance claim 10 from one claimant and thereby pay that claimant more money than another claimant with an 11 insurance claim that is not assigned to the Trustee. The Trustee also will be able to apply a harsher 12 “reasonable efforts” standard to some claimants and not others solely by interpreting their insurance 13 coverage in a more expansive manner. Either way, the disparate treatment of Fire Victim Claimants 14 within the same class violates section 1123(a)(4), and renders the Plan non-confirmable.

15 III. MATERIAL CHANGES TO THE TRUST DOCUMENTS MUST BE 16 APPROVED BY THE COURT

17 47. The Trust Agreement permits the Trustee<sup>9</sup> to materially modify the terms of the 18 Trust Agreement without the approval of the Bankruptcy Court. Section 8.3 of the Trust Agreement 19 simply provides that, “Any modification or amendment made pursuant to this Section 8.3 must be 20 done in writing.”<sup>10</sup>

21 48. This construct is extraordinarily problematic and violates the Bankruptcy Code 22 insofar as there is no limitation on the type of amendments that could be implemented, including, 23 for example, amendments that would result in disparate treatment among Fire Victim Claims in

24 <sup>9</sup> It is unclear under the Trust Documents whether the amendment of the Trust Agreement can be 25 unilaterally done by the Trustee or if it requires the consent of the other parties, such as the 26 seven members of the Trust Oversight Committee, who are signatories to the agreement.

27 <sup>10</sup> Section 8.3 limits amendments to the Trust Agreement in certain very limited respects (e.g., the 28 effect of the Channeling Injunction, the Trust’s qualified settlement fund status), but does not limit any other type of amendments beyond the listed exceptions including those that implicate the allowance and treatment of Fire Victim Claims.

1 violation of section 1123(a)(4) of the Bankruptcy Code. If Section 8.3 of the Trust Agreement were 2 to remain in its current form the Trustee would have the unfettered ability to modify the Trust
3 Documents in ways that would violate the Bankruptcy Code and would never have been approved 4 by the Bankruptcy Court if presented now. For example, the Trustee could amend the Trust 5 Agreement to exclude Claimants over a certain age or based on their political affiliation. More 6 realistically, the Trustee could modify the Trust Documents with the goal of disadvantaging large 7 Fire Victim Claims. Such changes would result in unequal and disparate treatment among Fire 8 Victim Claims in violation of section 1123(a)(4) of the Bankruptcy Code and would certainly not 9 be approved by the Bankruptcy Court. But, as currently constructed, the Trustee can unilaterally 10 make those changes and the Fire Victim Claimants have no ability to object. Allowing the Trustee 11 such absolute power and discretion, without the judicial oversight of this Bankruptcy Court, is 12 neither fair nor appropriate as it leaves the Fire Victim Claimants vulnerable to potential mischief 13 and, as noted, it runs afoul of the Bankruptcy Code because it risks violation of, among other things, 14 section 1123(a)(4).

15 49. The solution is simple: The first sentence of Section 8.3 of the Trust Agreement 16 should be modified as follows (with modifications reflected in bold and underline): “Any 17 modification or amendment made pursuant to this Section 8.3 must be done in writing and, in the 18 case of material modifications or amendments, shall be subject to the approval of the 19 Bankruptcy Court after notice and hearing.” Absent that revision, the Fire Victim Claimants 20 will have no assurance that the Trust Documents will do what they purport to do, and they will have 21 no assurance that they will receive the equal, fair and pro rata treatment that is required by the 22 Bankruptcy Code and by the current forms of the Trust Documents.

23 IV. THE TRUST DOCUMENTS IMPROPERLY ALLOW THE TRUSTEE TO 24 HOLD FINANCIAL INTERESTS AND ACT AS ATTORNEY, AGENT OR PROFESSIONAL, FOR FIRE VICTIM CLAIMANTS

25 50. Section 5.9 of the Trust Agreement states that:

26 Except as otherwise contemplated and disclosed in the Trust Documents or 27 to the TOC after Effective Date of this Trust, the Trustee shall not, during 28 the term of his or her service, hold a financial interest in, act as attorney or agent for, or serve as any other professional for any entity with a financial

1 interest in the Trust, provided that any passive investment held by the 2 Trustee shall not constitute a conflict of interest under this Section 5.9. Any 3 violation of this Section 5.9 shall be cause for removal of the Trustee.

4 Under that provision, the Trustee is allowed to hold a substantial, nonpassive financial interest in, 5 or act as attorney, agent or professional for, one or more of the Fire Victim Claimants. No 6 explanation has been offered for why it would ever be appropriate for the Trustee to do these 7 things. The Trustee is being generously compensated for his work in connection with the Trust, 8 as detailed in Section 5.6 of the Trust Agreement, and under the circumstances he should not be 9 taking on any nonpassive financial interest in the Fire Victim Claimants, nor should he be taking 10 on any role as attorney, agent or professional for any of the Fire Victim Claimants. Any such 11 interest or role undoubtedly has an appearance of impropriety and it jeopardizes the Trustee's 12 ability to act impartially, which is especially critical since the Trustee has the last word on the 13 allowance and treatment of Fire Victim Claims. Disclosure to the TOC is not a sufficient way to 14 police these matters. The Trustee should be disinterested and independent to ensure fairness in the 15 process. Therefore, all nonpassive financial investments in the Fire Victim Claimants by the 16 Trustee should be prohibited, as should attorney, agent and professional roles.<sup>11</sup>

17 51. Section 5.9 should be revised as follows (with modifications reflected in 18 bold/strikethrough/underline):

19 ~~Except as otherwise contemplated and disclosed in the Trust~~
20 ~~Documents or to the TOC after Effective Date of this Trust, the~~ Trustee 21 shall not, during the term of his or her service, hold a financial interest in, 22 act as attorney or agent for, or serve as any other professional for any entity 23 with a financial interest in the Trust, provided that any passive investment 24 held by the Trustee shall not constitute a conflict of interest under this 25 Section 5.9. Any violation of this Section 5.9 shall be cause for removal of 26 the Trustee.

26 <sup>11</sup> An alternative solution would be to require Bankruptcy Court approval for any instance in 27 which the Trustee is going to take a financial investment in, or serve as attorney, agent, or other 28 professional for, one of the Fire Victim Claims. That would allow the Bankruptcy Court to evaluate the facts and circumstances of the proposed investment or agent-role and determine at that time whether it is appropriate and warranted.

1           VI. THE CLAIMANT RELEASE MUST BE TEMPORALLY LIMITED

2           53. The Claimant Release (as defined in the Trust Agreement and attached thereto as 3 Exhibit 4), as currently constructed is too broad, as it releases the Released Parties (as defined 4 therein), from any and all claims and causes of action arising both prior to and after execution of 5 the Claimant Release. See Ex. 4, Trust Agreement. Because of the contemplated staggered, interim 6 distribution of Plan consideration to Fire Victim Claimants, there will exist a period of time 7 following execution of a Claimant Release where the Released Parties could potentially take 8 fundamentally improper actions that adversely affect the Fire Victim Trust and the consideration 9 held for the benefit of the Fire Victim Claimants prior to the full and final satisfaction of a Fire 10 Victim Claim. For example, the Claimant Release as currently drafted would release a Released 11 Party from liability even where that Released Party absconded with Trust Assets. The Claimant 12 Release should be modified to make clear that the release is limited to any and all claims and causes 13 of action the Fire Victim may have had on or prior to the execution thereof.

14           54. The operative release provision of the Claimant Release should be modified so that 15 it is limited to claims “from the beginning of time through the execution date of this release.”

16           VII. FIRE VICTIM CLAIMANTS ARE ENTITLED TO REIMBURSEMENT OF 17           ATTORNEYS’ FEES

18           55. The CRP impermissibly deny Fire Victim Claimants with property damage losses 19 the right to seek reimbursement of their attorneys’ fees. Article IX, entitled “Hold-Back for 20 Attorney Liens,” provides as follows: “[t]he payment of attorney’s fees incurred by Claimant . . .
21 is the sole obligation of Claimant. Neither the Trustee nor the Trust is responsible for the payment 22 of any attorney’s fees . . . incurred in connection with a Claim.” In any inverse condemnation 23 proceeding resolved in favor of the plaintiff (as was the case here),<sup>13</sup> however, Cal. Civ. Proc. Code 24 § 1036 entitles claimants, as part of any judgment or settlement, to “a sum that will . . . reimburse 25 the plaintiff’s reasonable costs, disbursements, and expenses, including reasonable attorney . . .
26 fees, actually incurred because of that proceeding.” See also Aetna Life & Casualty Co. v. City of

27
28           <sup>13</sup> See Memorandum Decision on Inverse Condemnation, dated November 27, 2019 [Dkt. # 4895].

1 Los Angeles (1985) 170 Cal. App. 3d 865, 880 (appellate court remanded case to trial court to award 2 reasonable attorney's fees based on calculation of attorney's services based on time expended on 3 case). While the Objectants appreciate the complexity of addressing attorney liens on personal 4 injury claims, the CRP cannot solve that problem by denying Fire Victim Claimants with property 5 damage claims the right to recover their reasonable attorneys' fees afforded under applicable state 6 law. See also Travelers v. PG&E, 549 U.S. 443 (claims allowance determined under state law).

7 VIII. THE TRUST DOCUMENTS FAIL TO ESTABLISH ADEQUATE
8 STANDARDS FOR THE ADJUDICATION OF CLAIMS

9 56. While the CRP goes to great length to explain the types of damages Claimants may 10 attempt to assert (assuming adequate proof), no standards are provided as to how Fire Victim 11 Claims will actually be adjudicated. Article I of the CRP merely obligates the Trust to "consider" 12 all damages and costs recoverable under California law or, if applicable, other non-bankruptcy law.
13 CRP, Article I (Claimant Eligibility). Nothing obligates the Trust or the Neutrals (as defined in the 14 Trust Agreement), to actually follow the law, so long as they "consider" it. Moreover, even if a 15 Neutral determines that an award should be increased or reconsidered because of a mistake by the 16 Claims Administrator, Article VIII(3) of the CRP empowers the Trustee to "accept, reject, revise 17 the Appeals Determination," without regard to applicable law and for any reason or no reason at 18 all. The "Trustee Determination" then becomes the "final Claims Determination regarding both 19 eligibility and payment amount, if any" unfettered by review "by any Court." CRP, Article VIII(3).
20 These are not the hallmarks of a fair and equitable process. This is not even due process, and should 21 not be allowed by this Court.

22 CONCLUSION

23 57. WHEREFORE, the Objectants respectfully request that the Court direct the Plan 24 Proponents and TCC to modify the Trust Documents to address the concerns set forth in this 25 Objection.
